ABSTRACT
This publication is designed to improve the flow of information among personnel workers both in school setting and in the private sector, and to open avenues of communication among those with similar interests. The volume is divided into two basic sections, the Directory and the Indexes. The Directory contains alphabetical listings of over 500 participants who responded to a questionnaire in 1969. Included in this section are the participant's name, address and phone number, role designation, work setting, activity areas of interest, materials he is willing to share, and his consultation availability. The Index section is subdivided to include the following: (1) Geographical Area of Location; (2) Work Setting; and (3) Activity and Interest Areas. The Activity Index is the most extensive and is further subdivided under the following headings: Administration, Consultation, Counseling, Counselor Education, Counselor Supervision, Course Development, Material Development, Program Development, Research, School Psychology, Teaching, and Others. Descriptors categorize the activities of persons designated beneath them. Entries are extensively cross referenced. (CJ)

INTRODUCTION

The need of personnel workers, in schools and in the private sector, for avenues of communication with others in their respective fields of interests, has been amply demonstrated.

The publication of RICH represents the efforts of the CAPS staff to fulfil this expressed need. From early development of the project by Dr. James L. Lee, RICH has been a team effort of the entire CAPS staff. When Dr. Lee left our staff, the task of data interpretation and codification was assumed by Mrs. Carol K. Jaslow who, together with other members of the CAPS staff, was able to complete the task in a most commendable manner.

It is our hope that RICH will provide a significant tool for improving the flow of information and spreading the ideas of a few into successful programs for the many.

We encourage your response and evaluation of RICH, but particularly we encourage your use of the intra-area communication potential encompassed within its pages.

HOW TO USE RICH

RICH is separated into two main sections — the DIRECTORY which is arranged alphabetically, and the INDEXES. The latter include the following categories: (1) Geographical Index; (2) Work Setting Index; and (3) Activity Index.

The most extensive index is the one devoted to Activity Areas, and this is further divided into SUB-indexes under the following headings: Administration, Consultation, Counseling, Counselor Education, Counselor Supervision, Course Development, Material Development, Program Development, Research, School Psychology, Teaching, and Others. Each SUB-index contains a listing of desriptor terms which categorize the activities of persons designated beneath them. Entrants may appear a number of times, depending on the number of activity areas and corresponding descriptor terms used to express their interests.

Entries include the following information:

Name (Highest Degree Earned)
Address
Telephone Number, if available

A. Role Designation(s)
B. Work Setting
C. Activity Areas of Interest
D. Materials Willing to Share
E. Consultation Availability
